

Volunteers Needed!

For The Neuro-GD Study: research to help us better understand SYNGAP1 Related Intellectual Disability and Fragile X Syndrome

Researchers from the University of Edinburgh's Patrick Wild Centre are currently looking for participants to help with their research.

If you, or someone you care for, has either SYNGAP1 related intellectual disability or fragile X syndrome then you / they may be able to take part. We are also keen to recruit siblings who do not have a developmental disorder to use as a comparison group.

Taking part would involve filling in some questionnaires, doing some puzzles and having an EEG.

It is possible to take part even if you / they can't manage all of these, so please still get in touch.

Want to know more?

Contact Damien at dwrigh12@exseed.ed.ac.uk or by calling 0131 537 6431.

More info at www.patrickwildcentre.com/NeuroGD